THURSDAY APRIL 1, 184[illegible]

[illegible] Affairs, &c.

The [illegible]lows still hang over the fate [illegible] Gen Taylor The rumors [illegible]m that quarter are unfavorable [illegible]ory We have published at [illegible]eached us upon the subject [illegible]othing in the intelligence calculated [illegible]e fears which all must feel [illegible]neral Taylor and his command

[illegible]ocrat in common with the [illegible]verring in this gloomy hour, [illegible]nsibility of the strength and [illegible]ay from the President and [illegible]ress If this should be the case [illegible] only be changing the mat[illegible] of the loco party to another [illegible]me party

[illegible] this course of the President [illegible]rease? Do they know one day [illegible]r the next? It is but a short [illegible] the friends of the President [illegible]ere, and the loco press repeat[illegible] the country, that the war was [illegible]nd brought to an end, and [illegible]tion of three millions of dol[illegible]ld be purchased Just give the [illegible]ity to use three millions of dol[illegible]s done! And they were to [illegible]n awful accountability who [illegible]e Wilmot proviso or anything [illegible]uld defeat the great peace measure [illegible]effect the object

[illegible]e the three millions of dollars, [illegible]omised has not yet dawned [illegible]ure we from a peace that the [illegible]s buried in gloom on account of [illegible] the Mexican General Santa [illegible]es dent Polk brought from exile [illegible] the command of the Mexican Army [illegible]nd defeated the gallant Taylor

And Congress, we are told, is [illegible]nsible, and it is the cure all [illegible]country! Should Gen Taylor [illegible]ing war upon Santa Anna, and [illegible]heard of progress of valor, and [illegible]es of victory with his handful of [illegible]oldiers of Mexico, why then these [illegible]nts will be ready to bind we[illegible]eaths [illegible]—the President!

[illegible]e gallant, veteran Taylor beside [illegible]half savage cavalry of Mexico, [illegible]sargent, Santa Anna, [illegible]redden[illegible]en horses in American blood, [illegible]people are told to look to the [illegible]val Vera Cruz and draw comfort[illegible]ment from that.

[illegible]nders and mistakes of the administration conducting the war are apparent in [illegible] its history, and what is really worse is the fact that while he admits the Generals to prove victorious [illegible] half supplies, and trade contemptuously, they wish at the same time their reputation before the country was a blunder of the administration [illegible] that the war with Mexico would be [illegible]n a few months—that the people [illegible] courage and would yield upon a [illegible] chastisement With these views [illegible] was not disposed to make any [illegible]le provision for the work he had [illegible]he army to perform It was a [illegible]e administration supposing last [illegible]he war was concluded because [illegible]little bands had traversed and conquered [illegible]a fashion, a gigantic extent of wild [illegible] Then they said no more troops would [illegible]d It was a blunder of the administration [illegible] prosecuting the war with Mexico by [illegible]he army from the Nueces to the Rio [illegible]nd thence to the city of Mexico via [illegible]s, Monterey, and Saltillo Here is a [illegible]stances on the route, which we copy [illegible]Y Express—

[illegible]s a large body of Mexican troops.

[illegible]ems to have pleased the administration that the enemy's country should [illegible] from the most distant points of the [illegible]ntre, and in the most inaccessible [illegible] he base of operations been made [illegible]he army would now be in or near [illegible]e of Mexico It was a blunder in [illegible]ration in seeking the means to purchase [illegible]as to conquer a peace to [illegible]pen proclamation to the world [illegible] even less of Mexican patriotism [illegible]x can valor

[illegible] some of the blunders, and more we did we deem it necessary But it has [illegible]ed that most of them are accounted [illegible]e principle, which the treatment of [illegible] Scott seems strongly to suggest, that [illegible]tration desire to protract the war, [illegible] excite the people to a pitch of rage [illegible]turn the heart to war and carnage that [illegible]ection upon the cause and character [illegible]ar shall be abandoned and forgotten and [illegible] President be enabled to retain the vast [illegible]s with which war has crowned him [illegible] to secure in the debasement [illegible] and mill[illegible] the breeding and debauch[illegible]g [illegible] the means of corruption by which [illegible] and to steal in [illegible] can hope to enter the people and then, after all of the [illegible]e [illegible]ring of the war does not go well [illegible] the people, and they complain, why [illegible] the President intends by the help of his [illegible]oned legions, to slip his neck out and utter a patriotic [illegible]g squeak that——Congress is responsible

☞ The New York Express states that private letters received in that city by the last packet show that the lowest estimate of the deficiency of the potato crop, in the North of Europe, amounts to seven millions of tons—the newspapers say eight millions,—that the famine will [illegible] until September next, and longer, and that there not be a good crop. With all this and with money and benevolence can afford [illegible] to less than one million of human beings must fall a prey to starvation, or its consequent diseases!

This extraordinary destruction of life, and the expenditure of money, large as it is, will not prove to be in great proportion to the whole of the population suffering from famine, as the [illegible]hich will take place in the present war, which the president of the United States has got up with Mexico for his own aggrandizement England has raised for two millions of dollars to feed the poor We have already spent double this sum in killing off our own soldiers and murdering the Mexicans

☞ The Boston papers state that the telegraphic wire at the Western Railroad Depot at Charlton blew down on Friday night, where it crosses the track, and the wire caught on the engine of he down freight train, pulling down one of the posts and sweeping from the track [illegible] the breakmen One was killed, one had his leg broken, but the other was not injured No damage was done to the train

☞ The St Louis Reveille says—It is supposed that about fifty persons have recently perished on the route to Santa Fe, from starvation and exposure they were principally persons who had gone out in the employment of the Government as teamsters

Commercial Bank Bath Maine, Nov 221, 1847
Dated Nov 3,1845 —altered from some brick [illegible]en Bank, and easily detected by the word "State of Maine," and "Bath" being printed over an [illegible]square

☞ Webster and Calhoun are said to be now engaged upon great works, which are to be the crowning efforts of their lives Mr Calhoun upon a Treatise on the principles of Government and Mr Webster upon a History and Exposition of the Constitution

☞ There is to be a public recognition of a new church at Market Hall this evening Services conducted by Rev Mr Pomeroy In consequence of the meeting, the Anti-slavery Society will meet to-morrow, instead of to-day

The Federal Ship Jamestown sailed from the navy yard, Charlestown, for Cork, Ire and, yesterday morning, at half past 8 o'clock with a strong breeze from N W The end of the wharves along the whole line of unharbor were peopled with spectators to witness her departure Under her three topsails, single reefed, she dashed along at the rate of 9 miles per hour, and passed every vessel bound down the harbor as if they had cast an anchor From her mizzen peak floated the stripes and stars and from her main royal mast head a large white flag with a green shamrock in the centre The steamer R B Forbes, Capt Morris, with a party of gentlemen on board, accompanied her down to the light house, where parting cheers were given and returned, and then the gallant ship's courses and topgallant sail were set and away she went full twelve knots an hour Good luck attend her and those on board, and may they return speedily and safely

Her cargo consists of 1977 barrels of bread, 413 do beans, 533 barrels, 2 half bags corn 1 half barrel beef, 16 barrels, 1 barrel, 14 boxes 2 bundles clothing 3 pieces, 1 half barrel, 1 bag bedding, 55 barrels 1 half barrel flour, 100 pieces [illegible] 40 barrels 1 half barrel pork, 10 barrels [illegible] 1 coil rope, 723 lbs rice, 4,682 bags coal [illegible] 1 barrel 11 kegs pork 8 barrels peas 84 barrels 7 bags potatoes 160 half do rice 23 barrels 11 bags, 1 box rum 1 half barrel merchandize 2 bags wearing apparel The cargo is valued at $85 714 —Boston Post, March 30

El Pico.

The following account of a singular curiosity in Mexico, is given by the correspondent of the N O Delta "I forgot to mention to you a very high and singular mound that stands to the right of the road coming from Victoria to Tampico and within 25 or 30 miles of Ciudad [illegible] The first time that I saw it was whilst on a high eminence near Forlon, and at that long distance it seemed to towe above the clouds A day or two steady travelling towards it made little or no difference in its appearance, and it was the subject of remark to the whole command At one time, when the clouds obscured the sun, and no vestige of its rays shone upon the prairie or hill sides, the top of it in height showed itself above the cloud and was so bright with the reflection of the sun as to show the green grass growing upon its brow A most magnificent view than it presented at that time, could not be conjectured, and more than a thousand eyes were riveted upon it, during the passage of the cloud From the distance I was to it I should think that the ascent was gradual for full ten miles around, and until within 500 feet of the top, when it runs up perpendicularly, and I should think from its appearance, had two or three acres of level ground on the top Having never did not learn, but it is not be familiar to seamen on the coast, as I understand it can be seen 40 or 50 miles from land The only name I could get for it from the Mexicans was El Pico—the Peak

True Religion and Indian Superstition.

The following is a beautiful and touching incident recorded in the Indian preacher Tuscarora, the first convert to Christianity on Nantucket Island. While addressing, in the occasion a large assembly of his red brethren, and while asserting the superiority of his new faith over that in which he had been educated and celebrated himself, whose magical power was everywhere dreaded, made his appearance in horrid costume and with the paraphernalia of his art hanging about him After vainly endeavoring by strange gestures, contortions and mutterings, to disturb and terrify the preacher he placed before him a charm, or medicine, bidding him keep it in sight of his audience, in pain of instant destruction The superstitious and half converted auditors drew back in the utmost terror, shrieking and begging the preacher to desist Tuscarora never hesitated With a loud voice he defied the magician, told him that his arts had no power over a servant of the true God, and, in spite of all he could do, any thing else—Mamma says he doesn't—Exchange paper

Enjoyment of Life.

Two wealthy citizens of Boston now considerably advanced in life, were lately conversing, in regard to the period when they had best enjoyed themselves "I will tell you," says one, "when I must situated life it was soon after I was 21 I worked for Mr ——— by me stone wall 25 cents per day Well, replied the other, it does not differ much from my experience, for I was 20 years of age I shared out at $7 per month, I have never enjoyed myself better since

The experience of these two individuals teaches us, that one's happiness does not depend on the amount of his gains or the station he occupies, but that very small beginnings, with industry and prudence, may secure wealth

An editor in Illinois says—In passing down the Illinois river in a little stern wheel boat called the Agasha, which craft drew at no sixteen inches of water, we were much amused at the jerky of the thing, when, in approaching a sandbar, the engineer was stopped and backing back, for the boat to wait Hoosier team boats It is no uncommon occurrence, we are know, for the captain of a boat, of a dark night to wade ahead with a lantern in his hand and point out the channel This saves the necessity of throwing the lead, the pilot singing 'knee deep, and all is well

Hints to Young Men.

Always have a book within your reach which may be taken up at your odd minutes Resort to it at the end of the year Regulate your thoughts when not at study A man is thinking even while at work Why not be thinking about something that is useful? Resolve in your mind what you have last been reading

There are not among mankind so few men of genius as some are apt to imagine Want of resolution and confidence keeps down the world more works of merit than want of invention or ability

A casual fellow says, 'Snoring is a spontaneous escape of those vital grant feelings which the sleeper has not time to vent when awake

A good story is related of Sully, the painter, a man distinguished for refinement of manners, as well as his success in art At a party one evening, Sully was speaking of a belle, who was a great favorite—

'Ah, says Sully, 'she has a mouth like an elephant's!

'Oh, oh, Mr Sully, how can you be so rude

'Rude, ladies rude what do you mean? I say she has got a mouth like an elephant's—because it is full of ivory

A clergyman in Scotland desired his hearers never to do ill one another's [illegible], but when any one said anything that was not true they ought to whistle

One Sunday he preached a sermon on the parable of the loaves and fishes and being at a loss how to explain it he said the loaves were no joke in those days—they were as big as the hills in Scotland He had scarcely pronounced the words, when he heard loud whistling

'What's that, said he, who dares to whistle?

'It is I, Willy M'Dowald, the baker

'Well, Willy what objection have ye to what I told ye?

'None, haste John, only I want to know what sort of ovens they had to bake those loaves in?

Reported Battle, and Reported Victory for General Taylor!

[From the New Orleans Delta, 19th]

The schooner Wm C Preston arrived yesterday from Brazos, from which place she sailed on the afternoon of the 16th inst The news from General Taylor brought by this vessel is most cheering—The intense anxiety [illegible]ed among our citizens by the many alarming rumors which have circulated through the country relieved itself last evening in one universal expression of joy and mutual confidence in the superiority of American valor

Although the reports are still vague and indefinite, enough can be gathered from them to give every assurance that General Taylor has whipped Santa Anna

From Capt Brown, who came passenger in the Wm C Preston, we gather the following particulars of the reports most generally received in the Brazos

Gen Taylor was attacked by Santa Anna at Agua Nueva, and after a sharp battle fell back in good order to the vicinity of Saltillo, here he was again attacked by Santa Anna and a sharp engagement ensued in which Gen Taylor was victorious, continuing his retreat in good order Gen Taylor fell back to Monterey where he arrived in safety Safely intrenched here and finding Santa would not attack him Gen Taylor sallied out against Santa Anna and gave him battle

A long and desperate conflict ensued, which terminated in the total defeat of Santa Anna with very heavy loss The loss is reported to be between 4 and 5000 This may be an exaggeration but when it is considered that Gen Taylor had 20 pieces of flying artillery splendidly officered and managed, we venture the opinion that the Mexican loss has been very heavy Capt Brown states that all the points on the Rio Grande are in hourly apprehension of being attacked by the Mexicans At Camargo especially, the number of Mexicans hanging about the outskirts of the town had created considerable anxiety and vigilance among our troops at Camargo

Capt Hicks, who commands the steamboat Warren, in the government employ on the Rio Grande, came passenger in the Wm C Preston, and gives the following corroborative information of the rumors Captain H brings intelligence from Camargo to the 31st instant at which place information had been received from a Mexican who had just arrived from the interior, the collision had taken place at Buena Vista, Saltillo and Monterey, between the forces of Santa Anna, (numbering some 23 000) and those of Gen Taylor The conflict was stubborn and sanguinary on both sides, the enemy suffering immensely, but Gen Taylor finding himself too hotly pressed on all sides by a force greatly outnumbering his, he retired before the enemy in good order, and made good his retreat to Monterey spiking six pieces of ordnance and leaving at Saltillo some 30,000 rations which has fallen into the enemy's hands

The different engagements are said to have occupied the space of three days The enemy followed closely upon Gen Taylor's retreat until he arrived at Monterey, where the battle was renewed, and our forces gaining a decided advantage over the enemy, forced him to precipitately retire, when Gen Taylor, with a battery of flying artillery, and a cavalry charge pressing them warmly home, creating such immense havoc in their routed columns, that the slain are represented to have been ridden over in piles three deep The enemy was pursued for eight leagues on the Saltillo road, having suffered in all the engagements to the amount of 5000 killed, wounded and missing

Gen Taylor's loss is said to be 1000 At the last advices Santa Anna is said to have been endeavoring to rally his force for another desperate onslaught while Urrea had fallen in General Taylor's rear, near Puss Victoria, with 8000 Cavalry and a regular force of Rancheros for the purpose of impeding reinforcements and cutting off all communication between Monterey and Camargo. Gen Taylor is confident that he can maintain his position until adequate assistance may arrive

The New Orleans Picayune of the 21st says There were a thousand and one rumors put in circulation as soon as the W C Preston was reported—some of them to the effect that Gen Taylor had and three days' hard fighting, during which he fell back on Monterey, where he repulsed the Mexicans with terrible slaughter

These are evidently modifications of the news received here some time ago but the impression at the Brazos ran along the line of the Rio Grande was stronger than before that a sanguinary onslaught had taken place somewhere between Monterey and Aqua Nueva

We are constrained to say that nothing has been received upon which to base an opinion how the battle went The current reports lead us to infer the triumph of Gen Taylor, but further than that nothing can be positively asserted

Something has been done, but what, where and when, are yet matters of painful uncertainty There must be some truth in all that has been said, but how much must be left to the hopes and fears of the public to guess

Morning of the Rio Grande, March 19 1847

LOUISIANA DELTA A private express from this morning with the news or report, that Gen Taylor had defeated Santa Anna, and driven him back to Saltillo—killing 4000 Mexicans The news is probably correct as far as regards Santa Anna's defeat, but the number may be exaggerated We heard the firing at Matamoras yesterday afternoon and it was doubtless over the arrival of the steamboat Brownsville's news—now hourly expected at this port

The express came down by land and in half the time it would take a boat but we have consequently nothing official. The person who brought the news has so much fear of the Indians and guerillas, that the moment he got through he put spurs to his horse and fled, not stopping to give any information

One thing, however, you may be certain—Gen Taylor has defeated Santa Anna But at what sacrifice we cannot precisely tell

I will send you all the particulars by the ch'd Coffin of Onslow to leave to-day, should the Brownsville reach here in time

The reported Battles between the division of the American Army under Gen. Taylor, and the Mexican Forces under Santa Anna.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing under date of the 26th inst, says

From my arrival at the present moment, I have been in diligent search of the latest authentic news from Mexico I drive sifted—as at last tried to suit—every report, official or otherwise, of late transactions there For the facilities that have been afforded me in the pursuit I feel grateful

The rationale of the latest resultic advices from the seat of war, I think is this—A letter has been received quite recently by Col Taylor—the brother of our most gallant General—dated Saltillo, Feb 23 from Buena Vista questionable a diarrhy, (an authority that a promise of secrecy compels me to withhold) gives an account of three several attacks by Col Polk's regiment, Gen Santa Anna with nearly twenty thousand men upon "Old Rough and Ready," who had but about five thousand men under his command at the time The first attack was made at Agua Nueva, and after some hard demonstrations of natural hot lily, repulsed with considerable loss to the Mexicans the attack was renewed at Saltillo to which place Taylor had effected a retreat in perfect order It was again repulsed

Gen Taylor used the tops of the houses there with his sharp shooters, and as the Mexicans approached, dealt unerring volleys upon them They again retreated and not without severe loss Gen Taylor having given sufficient breathing time to his hard pressed soldiers, continued his march towards Monterey At the Pass of Rinconada he was again overtaken by the forces of Santa Anna who seemed to have set his life upon a cast, and determined to stand the hazard of the die

A third time he was attacked by the Mexicans and, it must be confessed, with much bravery, a third time they were repulsed, and with no considerable slaughter. It may, therefore be safely presumed that Gen Taylor, after the three glorious days of 21st, 22d and 23 of February became safely ensconced behind the protecting walls of Monterey, where he could hold out six months, and defy against all Mexico in arms

It is proper to acknowledge that the Department has received no official account of the news thus transmitted The latest dates at the War office are much antecedent

North Kingston March 3, 1846 Dr Wm Bailey—Dear Sir—I have for various times considered of myself indebtedness to you for which as well as for the benefit of mankind to bear testimony to the perfect state of health and comfort I have enjoyed for several years past, through the use of your Bailey's Sarsaparilla, I have from time to time tried various remedies without any visible good effects now I am happy to say that your Sarsaparilla has cured me I am happy to hear that you are as rapidly engaged as ever in the sale of your valuable medicines—perhaps I should say bles ings—it would be more appropriate for surely no one has done more to alleviate the ills that flesh is heir to than yourself If it were possible for bodily in firmities to disappear from the face of the earth I should deem your Sarsaparilla a panacea for every complaint But of one thing I am confident that some will come who in your name will be hailed forth in accents of gratitude from every lip, each hamlet and city throughout our country, and their will be a general thanksgiving for the glorious derived from your valuable extract of Sarsaparilla
I have within one week heard a celebrated Pl of our town proclaiming in terms of the high recommendation the extraordinary virtues of your

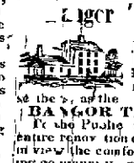
Lager Temperance House.



The former New England House, Alias Washington House has been recently enlarged, remodeled thoroughly repaired, and opened by the subscriber, as the

BANGOR TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

To the Public we beg leave to say, that in the entire renovation of this House, the proprietors had in view the comfort and convenience of the travelling community more than dollars and cents—that if fitting up and furnishing were design d to place it rank with the first Hotels in New England

Strict Temperance principles in its management, we pledge ourselves to adhere to—and aside from a model drink will endeavor to give on patrons accommodation inferior to no other House and on as reasonable terms

Connected with this establishment is a good STABLE, with an experienced Ostler always on hand, and at home in this department
